TO OUR MEMBERS

This number of 'Iowa Bird Life' is dedicated to the libraries and to our members who plan to bind their copies of the magazine. The index is a valuable feature because it puts the entire contents of five years into readily accessible form for present and future workers. A perusal of the index will reveal the extent to which this magazine has become a repository of information on Iowa birds. You now have a book of convenient size for binding. We urge you to have your 'Iowa Bird Life' bound. The cost is low, and by so doing your copies will be preserved intact and will increase in value as years pass. Sets of 'The Iowa Ornithologist' and other serials of past years are very scarce and costly at present—because few sets were bound and the inevitable result has been the scattering and losing of many copies.

Our members have very generously contributed their notes, and have made our magazine what it has been during the past five years. The Editor's work, primarily, is concerned with the make-up and mechanical accuracy of publication. He can publish only the articles and notes that are submitted to him. The future of our little magazine rests with our members. What it will be depends upon the material that is furnished for publication. Send the Editor your notes on Iowa birds. Consider yourself a member of the editorial staff and the representative of your particular region in recording bird notes.

Our organization is gaining strength. We are enlarging our work. A fine Convention at Fairfield in May is in prospect. Numerous important articles are awaiting publication. The pleasant associations within our big family are assured during the coming year. We are depending on each one of you to continue in the good work!

Yours sincerely,

THE OFFICERS,
 Iowa Ornithologists' Union.
